About NVIH

NVIH currently operates thriving healthcare clinics in Chico, Red Bluff, Willows and Woodland, California.

Northern Valley Indian Health is a private, nonprofit tribal corporation that has been providing medical and dental services since 1971, when it was founded by a group of Northern California Native American Tribes. True to the mission of its founders, NVIH's central purpose is to provide health services to eligible Native Americans and to all members of the community in the service areas of Glenn and Yolo Counties and portions of Butte, Colusa and Tehama Counties.

OUR MISSION

Excellence in Healthcare Services to Native Americans and All Community Members

OUR VALUES

Our Region

The beautiful Northern California communities surrounding our NVIH clinics are an idyllic place to live, play and raise a family. With a diverse culture and prosperous businesses, the cities of Chico, Red Bluff, Willows and Woodland embody all the benefits of living in Northern California.

Our clinics are located just a short distance from California's State Capitol, the San Francisco Bay Area, the Sierra Nevada Mountains, Napa Valley, Mount Lassen, Mount Shasta and much more.

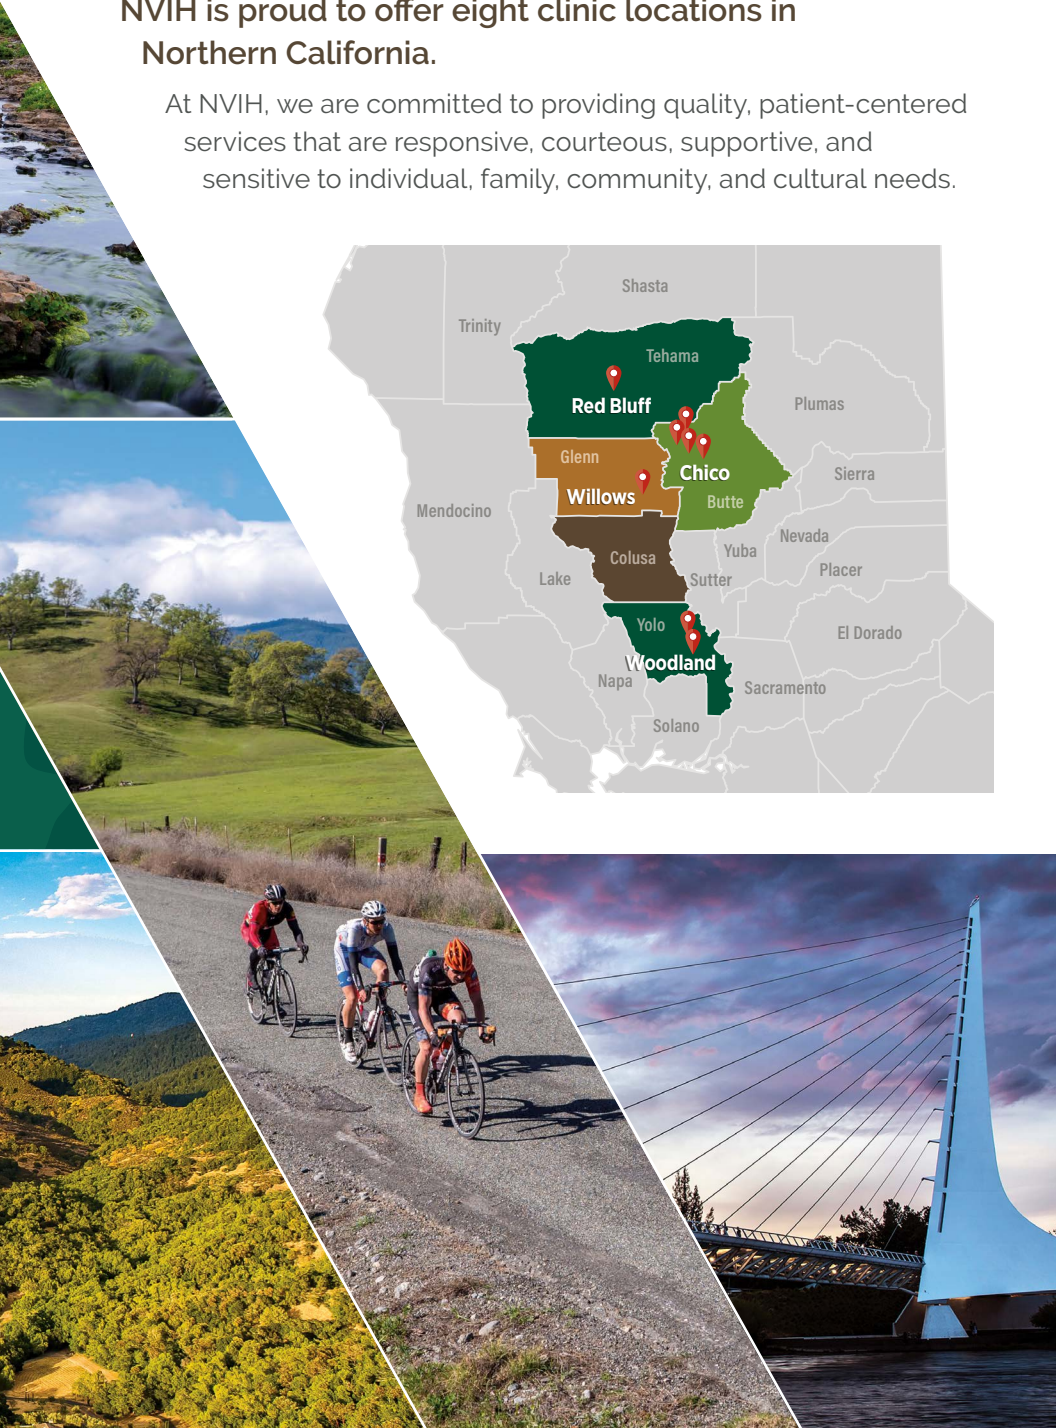

The surrounding region offers abundant natural beauty, unsurpassed quality of life, and ample recreational opportunities like camping, fishing, hunting, snow skiing, water skiing, hiking, river rafting and more.

Serving all Communities

NVIH is proud to offer eight clinic locations in Northern California.

At NVIH, we are committed to providing quality, patient-centered services that are responsive, courteous, supportive, and sensitive to individual, family, community, and cultural needs.
